STATE & METRO AREA PRESS RELEASE

For Immediate Release
September 17, 2021

Nevada continues to add jobs in August; Unemployment rate stable

CARSON CITY, NV - According to the Nevada Department of Employment, Training and Rehabilitation's (DETR) August 2021 economic report, Nevada added 11,900 jobs over the month as the state continues to recover from the COVID recession. Employment remains below typical levels, but is up 103,300 since August 2020, an annual increase of 8.3%. The large increase in employment over the year reflects the significant effects of the pandemic over the last year. The total employment level in the state is 1,350,400. The state's unemployment rate in August is 7.7 percent, unchanged from July and down -6.8 percentage points when compared to August 2020.

Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA) Employment (Seasonally Adjusted):

- Las Vegas employment increased by 7,000 jobs (0.7%) since July, an increase of 78,700 jobs (8.9%) since August 2020.
- Reno employment had an increase of 900 jobs (0.4%) since July, an increase of 13,600 jobs (5.8%) since August 2020.
- Carson City employment had an increase of 300 jobs (1.0%) since July, an increase of 1,300 jobs (4.4%) since August 2020.

"Release of data for August provides us with a look at how Nevada's economy responded to the emergence of the delta variant. Overall, employment continued to recover at a rapid pace. The nearly twelve thousand jobs added over the month is near the high end of the COVID recovery period, rebounding from a slower pace in July. The leisure and hospitality industry added the most jobs over the month, adding 3,900 jobs since July. The state's unemployment rate was unchanged at 7.7 percent this month, likely to remain one of the highest rates in the nation and reflecting the long road left to a complete recovery in the state's labor market," said David Schmidt, Chief Economist.

Nevada Statewide & Metro Area Labor Market Overview

August 2021

Published on September 17, 2021

August data provides us with our first look at how Nevada's economy responded to the emergence of the delta variant. Overall, employment continued to recover with most industries showing growth. The nearly twelve thousand jobs added over the month is near the high end of the COVID recovery period, rebounding from a slower pace in July.

Most industries in Nevada continued to grow in August with the largest growth in the leisure and hospitality and construction sectors. Job growth in leisure and hospitality added 3,900 workers or 1.4 percent while construction grew by 3,000 or 3.3 percent when adjusting for seasonality

All three of the state's metropolitan areas (MSA) experienced growth in August. The Las Vegas MSA added 7,000 jobs, growing at 0.7 percent. The Reno MSA grew by 900 jobs or 0.4 percent while the Carson City area grew by 300 jobs or 1.0 percent.

The state's unemployment rate remained at 7.7 percent this month, likely to remain one of the highest rates in the nation and reflecting the long road left to a complete recovery. This is down from 14.5 percent in August 2020.

Although Nevada continues to see improvement in the labor market, there are still significant hurdles in achieving a full recovery in the state, especially the uncertainty around new COVID-19 variants and their potential impacts on businesses and the labor force.

Information on how to file an unemployment insurance claim, where to get updates from the Nevada Department of Employment, Training, and Rehabilitation (DETR) or what other services are available from the department can be found at the end of this write-up. Unemployment Insurance

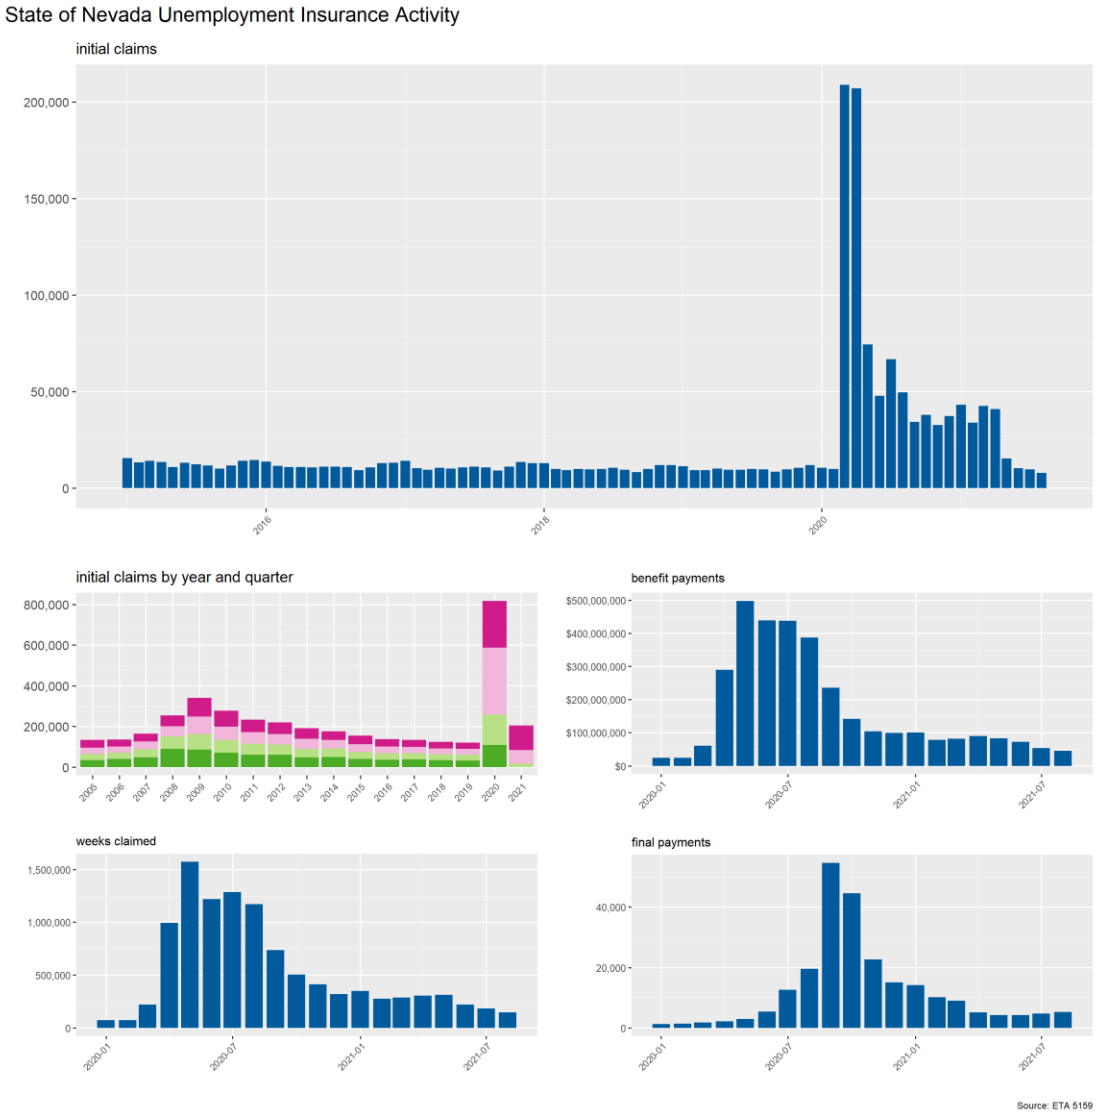
In August, 7,826 initial claims for unemployment insurance were filed in Nevada, a decrease of 1,970 claims, or 20.1 percent, from July when there were 9,796 claims. August's total follows a seasonal trend of declining initial claims in the spring and summer months. However, due to the considerable labor market impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic and the recent increase of COVID-19 cases~~,~~ it is hard to be sure if our typical seasonal trends hold true. While the initial claim totals are certainly better than they were a year ago, uncertainly persists in the months to come.



Claims activity for Nevada's regular program saw decreases across most measures in August, a reflection of the decline in initial claims seen over the last six months. The number of regular program weeks claimed and compensated decreased from July, resulting in $40.4 million in benefit payments, a decrease of 17.2 percent from the previous month. First payments were also down over the month, which is likely related to the initial claims decreases seen in the recent months. Final payments, also known as benefit exhaustions, increased to 5,238, up 8.4 percent from July.

Beginning borrowing in December, Nevada's Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund borrowed over $330 million through April to fund benefits in Nevada. In early August, the state received UI tax contributions for the third quarter of 2021 which will help fund benefits for the next two months. Additionally, with the passage of Senate Bill No. 461 in the 80th Nevada Legislative Session, $332.4 million was paid to the state by the Federal government to aid in the repayment of Nevada's Federal loans on September 1st of this year. As a result, the Trust Fund now has a $180.8 million balance which is likely to remain positive through the end of the year and require no additional borrowing to fund UI benefits by the state.
